

MILITARY NOTES.

The Forty-seventh regiment, Colonel Atkin, the favorite corps of Brooklyn, E. D., parades a battalion of 300 men, in full dress uniform, on Wednesday, the 23d, to make a flying visit to New Haven. The detachment will be under the command of Major Rogers, and will leave the regimental army in North Second street at quarter-past eight o'clock that evening, embarking on the steamer State of Maine from Peck slip at eleven P. M., and arriving at the Elm City the next morning. The battalion will be received by the Second Connecticut militia and escorted to the City Hall, where it will be formally received and reviewed by Mayor Patch, after which the command will be exercised in the school of the battalion, have a street parade, and conclude with a dress parade on the green, departing for New York at eleven P. M.

The grand Peace Jubilee at Boston the present week will be attended by a large number of the National Guard officers of this State. The officers of the Washington Gray cavalry, under command of Major E. H. Kent, accompanied by a fair representation of the personnel of the First and Second divisions of this city and Brooklyn, members of the Governor's staff and others, will leave this city on Tuesday afternoon by way of the Sound steamers. Line forms in Washington place, right on University place, at half-past three o'clock P. M. A battalion of the Third regiment cavalry, Colonel Budde, act as an escort on the occasion. On the arrival of the exponents at the hub they will be received by the old Boston Lancers. On their return (Friday morning) the First regiment cavalry will parade to receive them.

To the military of Brooklyn and of this city one of the most attractive features of the week will be the parade of the Eleventh brigade, National Guard, commanded by Brigadier General Meserve, at Prospect Park parade ground, Brooklyn, on Tuesday for battalion drill and exercises in evolutions of the line. The Twenty-third regiment, Colonel Ward; Forty-seventh regiment, Colonel Austin; Fifty-sixth regiment, Colonel Chapman; Thirty-second regiment battalion, Major Roach, and the Howitzer battery, Captain Hebe, which constitute the brigade, are all uniformed in gray. The brigade exercises commence at two P. M. It is expected that Governor Holman and staff will be present and review the troops at four o'clock. A parade through the principal streets of Brooklyn will be made on their return.

The court martial for the trial of Captain Cox, commanding Company B, Thirty-seventh regiment, for unfeeling-like conduct, &c., met again at the Seventh regiment Armory on Wednesday evening. Colonel Carr, Eighth regiment; Lieutenant Colonel George T. Haws, Seventh regiment, and Captain John W. Davis, Ninth regiment, constitute this court.

The examination of Captains Galpin and Oliver for the defense fully exonerates Captain Cox from any malicious intent to create insubordination prejudicial to good discipline. It is very evident Colonel Leggett has thus far failed to make out a case, notwithstanding he has an able exponent in the judge advocate of the Third brigade. The court meets again this evening at eight o'clock.

Complainant (in astonishment)—A bargain? No! tell you we're and my friend—just I just asked for some change and he charged us forty cents more than he knew!

Marshal Tooker—(smiling) I'm sure I don't know; you drink it; don't you know what it is?

COMPLAINANT—No sir! I ain't no judge either; I'm not a lawyer.

Captain Hebe—Now here that you got a right to charge me thirty cents for two glasses of beer?

Belongs to the State militia, the First regiment; res.

and I know all them hedges that's a going on in this city, but I don't think a man has a right to charge me thirty cents for a glass of beer.

Major Tooke—Now you make a bargain with the man about the price?

Complainant (in astonishment)—A bargain? No! tell you we're and my friend—just I just asked for some change and he charged us forty cents more than he knew!

Marshal Tooker—The Marshal had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

A BRACE OF SHARP LAWYERS.

Know as Mr. R. R. Remond, Esq., come to sue for a severe overreaching. Some seven or eight claimants have been made against them for malpractice.

The gentlemen in question were sent for, and they appeared at the Mayor's office, and one man, John Keimeyer of 498 Third street, left his watch and chain as a retainer, so as to have no head nothing of any proceedings being taken.

John O'Hara, of West Forty-fourth street, who has heard nothing of any proceedings being taken.

Some other claimants have come out of the suit, and have been paid off.

The Marshals had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

Mr. T. C. Tammey—(in a quiet voice) I'm sure I don't know; you drink it; don't you know what it is?

Complainant—No sir! I ain't no judge either; I'm not a lawyer.

Captain Hebe—Now here that you got a right to charge me thirty cents for two glasses of beer?

Belongs to the State militia, the First regiment; res.

and I know all them hedges that's a going on in this city, but I don't think a man has a right to charge me thirty cents for a glass of beer.

Major Tooke—Now you make a bargain with the man about the price?

Complainant (in astonishment)—A bargain? No! tell you we're and my friend—just I just asked for some change and he charged us forty cents more than he knew!

Marshal Tooker—The Marshal had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

A BRACE OF SHARP LAWYERS.

Know as Mr. R. R. Remond, Esq., come to sue for a severe overreaching. Some seven or eight claimants have been made against them for malpractice.

The gentlemen in question were sent for, and they appeared at the Mayor's office, and one man, John Keimeyer of 498 Third street, left his watch and chain as a retainer, so as to have no head nothing of any proceedings being taken.

John O'Hara, of West Forty-fourth street, who has heard nothing of any proceedings being taken.

Some other claimants have come out of the suit, and have been paid off.

The Marshals had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

Mr. T. C. Tammey—(in a quiet voice) I'm sure I don't know; you drink it; don't you know what it is?

Complainant—No sir! I ain't no judge either; I'm not a lawyer.

Captain Hebe—Now here that you got a right to charge me thirty cents for two glasses of beer?

Belongs to the State militia, the First regiment; res.

and I know all them hedges that's a going on in this city, but I don't think a man has a right to charge me thirty cents for a glass of beer.

Major Tooke—Now you make a bargain with the man about the price?

Complainant (in astonishment)—A bargain? No! tell you we're and my friend—just I just asked for some change and he charged us forty cents more than he knew!

Marshal Tooker—The Marshal had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

A BRACE OF SHARP LAWYERS.

Know as Mr. R. R. Remond, Esq., come to sue for a severe overreaching. Some seven or eight claimants have been made against them for malpractice.

The gentlemen in question were sent for, and they appeared at the Mayor's office, and one man, John Keimeyer of 498 Third street, left his watch and chain as a retainer, so as to have no head nothing of any proceedings being taken.

John O'Hara, of West Forty-fourth street, who has heard nothing of any proceedings being taken.

Some other claimants have come out of the suit, and have been paid off.

The Marshals had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

Mr. T. C. Tammey—(in a quiet voice) I'm sure I don't know; you drink it; don't you know what it is?

Complainant—No sir! I ain't no judge either; I'm not a lawyer.

Captain Hebe—Now here that you got a right to charge me thirty cents for two glasses of beer?

Belongs to the State militia, the First regiment; res.

and I know all them hedges that's a going on in this city, but I don't think a man has a right to charge me thirty cents for a glass of beer.

Major Tooke—Now you make a bargain with the man about the price?

Complainant (in astonishment)—A bargain? No! tell you we're and my friend—just I just asked for some change and he charged us forty cents more than he knew!

Marshal Tooker—The Marshal had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

A BRACE OF SHARP LAWYERS.

Know as Mr. R. R. Remond, Esq., come to sue for a severe overreaching. Some seven or eight claimants have been made against them for malpractice.

The gentlemen in question were sent for, and they appeared at the Mayor's office, and one man, John Keimeyer of 498 Third street, left his watch and chain as a retainer, so as to have no head nothing of any proceedings being taken.

John O'Hara, of West Forty-fourth street, who has heard nothing of any proceedings being taken.

Some other claimants have come out of the suit, and have been paid off.

The Marshals had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

Mr. T. C. Tammey—(in a quiet voice) I'm sure I don't know; you drink it; don't you know what it is?

Complainant—No sir! I ain't no judge either; I'm not a lawyer.

Captain Hebe—Now here that you got a right to charge me thirty cents for two glasses of beer?

Belongs to the State militia, the First regiment; res.

and I know all them hedges that's a going on in this city, but I don't think a man has a right to charge me thirty cents for a glass of beer.

Major Tooke—Now you make a bargain with the man about the price?

Complainant (in astonishment)—A bargain? No! tell you we're and my friend—just I just asked for some change and he charged us forty cents more than he knew!

Marshal Tooker—The Marshal had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

A BRACE OF SHARP LAWYERS.

Know as Mr. R. R. Remond, Esq., come to sue for a severe overreaching. Some seven or eight claimants have been made against them for malpractice.

The gentlemen in question were sent for, and they appeared at the Mayor's office, and one man, John Keimeyer of 498 Third street, left his watch and chain as a retainer, so as to have no head nothing of any proceedings being taken.

John O'Hara, of West Forty-fourth street, who has heard nothing of any proceedings being taken.

Some other claimants have come out of the suit, and have been paid off.

The Marshals had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

Mr. T. C. Tammey—(in a quiet voice) I'm sure I don't know; you drink it; don't you know what it is?

Complainant—No sir! I ain't no judge either; I'm not a lawyer.

Captain Hebe—Now here that you got a right to charge me thirty cents for two glasses of beer?

Belongs to the State militia, the First regiment; res.

and I know all them hedges that's a going on in this city, but I don't think a man has a right to charge me thirty cents for a glass of beer.

Major Tooke—Now you make a bargain with the man about the price?

Complainant (in astonishment)—A bargain? No! tell you we're and my friend—just I just asked for some change and he charged us forty cents more than he knew!

Marshal Tooker—The Marshal had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

A BRACE OF SHARP LAWYERS.

Know as Mr. R. R. Remond, Esq., come to sue for a severe overreaching. Some seven or eight claimants have been made against them for malpractice.

The gentlemen in question were sent for, and they appeared at the Mayor's office, and one man, John Keimeyer of 498 Third street, left his watch and chain as a retainer, so as to have no head nothing of any proceedings being taken.

John O'Hara, of West Forty-fourth street, who has heard nothing of any proceedings being taken.

Some other claimants have come out of the suit, and have been paid off.

The Marshals had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

Mr. T. C. Tammey—(in a quiet voice) I'm sure I don't know; you drink it; don't you know what it is?

Complainant—No sir! I ain't no judge either; I'm not a lawyer.

Captain Hebe—Now here that you got a right to charge me thirty cents for two glasses of beer?

Belongs to the State militia, the First regiment; res.

and I know all them hedges that's a going on in this city, but I don't think a man has a right to charge me thirty cents for a glass of beer.

Major Tooke—Now you make a bargain with the man about the price?

Complainant (in astonishment)—A bargain? No! tell you we're and my friend—just I just asked for some change and he charged us forty cents more than he knew!

Marshal Tooker—The Marshal had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

A BRACE OF SHARP LAWYERS.

Know as Mr. R. R. Remond, Esq., come to sue for a severe overreaching. Some seven or eight claimants have been made against them for malpractice.

The gentlemen in question were sent for, and they appeared at the Mayor's office, and one man, John Keimeyer of 498 Third street, left his watch and chain as a retainer, so as to have no head nothing of any proceedings being taken.

John O'Hara, of West Forty-fourth street, who has heard nothing of any proceedings being taken.

Some other claimants have come out of the suit, and have been paid off.

The Marshals had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

Mr. T. C. Tammey—(in a quiet voice) I'm sure I don't know; you drink it; don't you know what it is?

Complainant—No sir! I ain't no judge either; I'm not a lawyer.

Captain Hebe—Now here that you got a right to charge me thirty cents for two glasses of beer?

Belongs to the State militia, the First regiment; res.

and I know all them hedges that's a going on in this city, but I don't think a man has a right to charge me thirty cents for a glass of beer.

Major Tooke—Now you make a bargain with the man about the price?

Complainant (in astonishment)—A bargain? No! tell you we're and my friend—just I just asked for some change and he charged us forty cents more than he knew!

Marshal Tooker—The Marshal had him to find out if the man was honest, and if he was not to go to 301 Mott street and make a complaint to the Board of Excise.

A BRACE OF SHARP LAWYERS.

Know as Mr. R. R. Remond, Esq., come to sue for a severe overreaching. Some seven or eight claimants have been made against them for malpractice.

The gentlemen in question were sent for, and they appeared at the Mayor's office, and one man, John Keimeyer of 498 Third street, left his watch and chain as a retainer, so as to have no head nothing of any proceedings being